Discipline

Good morning Everyone:

Today I will discuss how important discipline is in everyone's life.

In our daily life, discipline must always be there. Discipline is one of the first few lessons that we learn as children. It means living our life with proper rules to achieve our goals. Without discipline, we cannot live a happy life. It is like following some rules and regulations. Discipline is everything that we do in the right way. We need discipline for many different things in our daily life.

There are many examples of self-discipline. In the morning, we must wake up early to prepare ourselves to go to school. It is essential because it is the start of being successful in life. Going to school every day is particularly important. Our principal and teachers teach us good discipline.

When we carry discipline in our life, we start improving our habits, which improve our personality. One of the most important lessons is that it will be useful for the rest of our life. As young kids, we must apply discipline to be successful in all aspects of our lives.

These are all the important things I know about discipline. I hope you enjoyed it.

Thank you, Everyone, and keep safe.

Discipline

Hello everybody!

Today I would like to talk about discipline. Discipline is a practice to train others to follow rules of behaving. It is necessary in our life to follow the rules to avoid punishment. Discipline is essential to everybody because it brings value to our life. It involves us in a better society away from chaos.

When we follow discipline, positive changes will come out. When I do my duties at home at the correct time and manner, it helps me achieve my goals. My parents will be satisfied and be sure that I can achieve anything I want in my life later. At home, we have many rules that my siblings and I must follow. We should know that there are limits we cannot go beyond, such as, never put ourselves in trouble and always ask before doing it if we are not sure about something.

Discipline at CBS includes rules students must follow, and these rules were put by the school administration. We should go to school on time; otherwise, we will be considered tardy. We must also go to school wearing school uniform or be punished and asked to return home. I will conclude by saying that with self-discipline, anything is possible.

Discipline Is Important

Discipline is an important life skill that everyone should obtain. From my point of view, discipline is equal to responsibility and being committed to something. If you are responsible and honor your commitments, you will be a successful person. It is essential to have discipline in school, at home, and in life in general. Without discipline, life will have no meaning, and it will be chaotic.

Firstly, I think that the first place in which we learn about discipline is at school. At my school, at the Canadian Bilingual School, I learned about discipline. I learned how to respect my teachers and behave. My teachers talk about the importance of discipline, like doing our homework on time and being honest with our teacher.

Secondly comes discipline at home. At my home, every family member has his/her responsibilities. Since we were little kids, our parents have made sure that we were committed to our responsibilities. For example, I must take care of my belongings and clean my room every day. My brother's responsibility is to make sure that our house's doors are closed before we sleep. My parents say that having our duties is vital to be successful men in life.

Therefore, discipline is essential in all aspects of life. If I have a goal that I dream of achieving, I will not achieve it without discipline. Working hard is part of discipline; I need to work hard every day. For example, I dream of getting an A at school, so I need to study at least three hours every day to achieve my goal. Discipline is something we need to practice every single day.

For all the reasons I mentioned above, nobody can be successful without discipline. It may seem hard at the beginning, but eventually, we will get used to it. It can also save time and help us to be organized. Discipline is an important life skill.

Grade 7's Letter Writing

14 February 2021

Dear Abdullah,

I wanted to share a place I visited in Kuwait that was super fun and interesting for kids. It is called KidZania. A place where all your imagination becomes reality! Trust me, it is super enjoyable. I went for the first time yesterday, and my mind was blown away by how creative it was for kids!

I was thinking about inviting you to come with me to KidZania tomorrow at 7 pm. My mom will pick us up, and I'll have the rest under control. We can do arts and crafts, play games, watch movies, and best of all, be creative. The place is super popular among us Kuwaiti kids. Moreover, I guarantee you are going to love it!

KidZania is a place where you can be what you want or imagine to be. It is as if your imagination was real. KidZania takes massive responsibility by supporting kids' creativity. No matter what the kids go through, they are always there for us. It has a super supportive community where you can make a lot of new friends.

I have always wanted to go to KidZania since the first time I saw it. I made a lot of new friends. It is a super friendly place, and I want you to experience how it feels to be there. It is such a fantastic sight. They also arrange the party for you when you book the party room.

Overall, it is a super fun place. Please come with me to KidZania. Trust me, you will fit in fine. So, will you come with me to KidZania?

Love,

Abdulaziz Faisal- 7B

Dear Jouri

Hello good friend, I have heard that you are having problems picking a place to visit. I recommend going to Murouj. It is a popular lifestyle destination in Kuwait.

First, let us start with the fantastic cafés and restaurants there. Any food or cuisine you can think of; they have it! There are ice cream parlors, sweets corners, coffee shops, and way more! As there are many cafés and restaurants to choose from, I am sure there is a perfect one waiting for you.

Secondly, let's talk about having fun! In Murouj, you can find Trampo and an unnamed yet colossal playground. At the Trampo, you have lots of fun options to choose from, and you can go rock climbing, skating on scooters, bikes, skateboards, and more, or go jumping on trampolines. In Murouj, there are shops where you can find clothing, shoes, hats, and more. Perfect place to buy all your needs! No better place to go shopping.

Finally, the view, attractions, and other beautiful things surrounding it make Murouj a bucket list of places to visit. There is also a horse-riding place next to Murouj, where you can see a big open horse-riding track! You can see horse riders learning and racing there. Plus, Murouj is not an INDOOR destination! It is outdoors, which means you can see the beautiful sky and breathe fresh air.

In conclusion, we have to say that Murouj is the perfect place to go. It is fantastic, and I recommend it. I hope this helped, my friend!

Love

Nature During the Seasons

Mother nature is beautiful; you simply cannot deny it. When you walk around the park, it is impossible not to admire the beauty and the exquisiteness of nature. No one can predict exactly how long the heavy clouds will hide the blazing hot sun, or how much rain or snow there will be. Everything is so unexpected and beautiful.

Everything becomes quiet in winter because people want to stay at home in to avoid the freezing weather. Some animals go into hibernation. If you were to tell an alien what happens during winter, the alien would stare at you in a perplexed way and would most likely accuse you of lying. In winter, the sun becomes less burning and less hot, the trees become bare and the grass is nowhere to be seen. When spring comes along, days become warmer and longer. The field starts to form a parsley-green color and many trees start to blossom, flowers start to push through the ground and the birds return from the south and make us delighted with their beautiful babble.

The hottest season of the year... summer. The peak of colors and blossoms occur in sunny summer. People can spend more time outside and enjoy warm nights and an incredible sky full of stars. Sometimes summer pleases us with light, fresh rain, and another colorful wonder, rainbow. Finally, autumn comes with its dazzling colors: gold, red, yellow, and brown. Leaves slowly fall down, and you can hear gentle rustle while walking in parks and alleys.

I'm the type of person who likes the cold, so it comes to no surprise when I say that my favorite season is winter.

That's not the only reason I look forward to winter though, I also look forward to winter because with winter comes winter break, so no school for two weeks! My perfect day is a day when its freezing cold outside, raining cats and dogs, while I'm inside my room, curled up on my bed.

When I'm on my bed, getting covered by thick blankets, I feel fuzzy, safe, secure and comfortable

Every time I would look out my reflective window, I would see the thick white clouds, the drippy rain, the people on the streets strutting away to somewhere safe because of the heavy rain. The smell of the fresh rain filling up the air... the sound of the rain chinking off the windows and finally hitting the ground with a soft 'clink' sound. Finally, after the rain slowly comes to an end, the sound of chirping birds come to replace the earie quite-ness.

My Future Career

Ever since I was a child, I have wanted to be a palaeontologist. I never understood how to get the job or what it actually means other than that it's a person who digs up fossils. Along with that, they collect fossils, handle them, and put them together to create the image of the animal. Now, I've decided to dive into my childhood dream and to try and find out the makings of a palaeontologist.

Palaeontology is the study of life on planet Earth based on fossils. Fossils are the remnants of existence/creatures. Palaeontologists dig up fossils from beneath the earth's surface, collect them, and study them to figure out how old they are. If enough fossils are found, they come together to become a full fossil body of a living creature. Humans can learn a lot from fossils.

The behaviour of organisms can be understood from fossil evidence. For example, palaeontologists infer that Hadrosaurs lived in herds. Finding the age of fossils could also tell us how long the creatures existed and how they have evolved over time, for example, marine mammals. A full fossil body can tell us about how the lofty extinct animals looked like. Palaeontology helps us humans understand the various aspects of ancient ecology and planet Earth. All these things are required when you are thinking about becoming a palaeontologist. A journey to become a palaeontologist starts with a good base in mathematics and science in high school and some hands-on experiences during holidays.

The reason my love for palaeontology started was animals. Complex living things other than humans that didn't communicate and showed other behaviours were fascinating to me. Later I fell in love with dinosaurs. The spark I felt after finding out that new species of dinosaurs could be unearthed and named, changed everything. I want to become a palaeontologist for that very reason. I've always liked naming things. Imprinting my name as the person who discovered a particular species; it was a child fantasy for me. All the bizarre creatures that could be hidden under layers of rock that could be detected and its secrets uncovered. The idea that a single bone could teach us about the world's history, the history that wasn't static; the very bones show us that our world was catastrophic, and ever-changing; the history that spans thousands to millions of years ago. What other reasons do I need?

Being a palaeontologist may just be my child fantasy, but it doesn't change the fact that I love it. Uncovering the history of our planet and its hidden gems seems not only fascinating, but also like a lifelong adventure. Being captivated by the great variety of creatures that once ruled our planet is the driving force to work hard and discover as much as possible. Palaeontology is my future!

The One Item that Revolutionized the 21st Century

The twenty-first century changed a lot about the way that we live daily. Most of the changes made were the start of advanced technology. If we come to think about it, in the 20th century, there were few technological inventions to be made. When we differentiate between the 20th century and the 21st century, we can see that technology has indeed had a significant impact on our lives. Many people in the world have mixed opinions on what to put in a time capsule for future generations to see. Some people may choose to put stuff that does not even embody or represent our generation, like an automobile. The automobile's invention was in the 20th century; therefore, it is not an item that would best represent the 21st century. I believe that the best thing to put in a time capsule from the twenty-first century for future generations to see is the only smartphone!

One of the essential technological inventions that has been made is the smartphone! The smartphone has made a momentous change in the way we live. Although it is small, it can help human life more easily and efficiently. The smartphone has even had a significant impact on education. It provides education in many unique ways, all because of the internet. Students can have much easier access to anything they would like to learn about in seconds by searching it up on the internet. The smartphone is known to provide various sorts of entertainment options, especially for our generation's youth. There are so many websites and applications where you can watch several types of shows and video clips. With the help of the internet, we use many diverse types of social media platforms, and we connect with people from all around the world. Getting to communicate with many people worldwide swiftly and efficiently has both advantages and disadvantages. According to the Forbes website, social media has become the leading news source with more than 2.4 billion internet users.

The news and what is happening in the world is what I think defines humanity and how it shapes a generation. The critical events that occur in the world make something revolutionary. Many people from all around the world get to say their opinions it can make a massive difference in the generation, change in the world, etc. Through social media, many people can have access to protest, sign petitions, and say their own opinions to change the world. Before the 21st century and smartphones, the only news people got access to was through a newspaper.

By just reading the newspaper, I feel like it was harder for people back then to voice their opinions to change the world. Now that there are many ways and opportunities to get your voice and ideas heard, people can make significant differences in the world they live in, which I think is a good thing for our generation to evolve and become better.

There can be no doubt that the smartphone is truly one of our generation's best inventions. I feel like smartphone embodies the 21st century because of its effects on our generation. It is what has made a massive change in society ever since the start of the 21st century. The smartphone is one of the most important inventions that have started the evolution of technology. Technology will always improve as the years go by, and smartphones are what made it improve and become such a revolutionary thing. To sum it all up, I am excited to see what the future generations have in store for us in terms of technology and society's reaction. I hope that smartphones can remind future generations how big an impact it had on us in the 21st century.
